BRIEF BIO

Larry J. Chavez, B.A., M.P.A., is a nationally recognized expert on workplace violence and crisis communication. Through his Workplace Violence 101 traveling workshop, he specializes in training managers, supervisors and employees to deal with, and prevent, violence within their organizations. A retired 31-year law enforcement veteran and former senior hostage negotiator, he has authored many articles on workplace violence and has been called upon for his expertise by such media organizations as the Wall Street Journal's CareerJournal.com, ABC News, Fox News, MSNBC, Christian Science Monitor and many others. In 1999, he honored an invitation to make a presentation before the United Nations World Health Organization Symposium on Violence and Health on the subject of Workplace Violence, The American Experience. That same year, he made a presentation before the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Among Larry's recent clients are the Diplomatic Security Service of the U.S. State Department, NASA Kennedy Space Center, US Departments of Defense, Veterans Affairs, Agriculture, Postal Inspectors Service as well as a number of state and local agencies of government. He has also taught extensively for the private sector.
